

[OFFICIAL~LIVE]* REDDIT Chiefs vs Eagles Live Stream Football

How To Watch Super Bowl Halftime Show 2023 Online Tomorrow And Stream Rihanna's Performance Anywhere

==>>SUPERBOWL Watch Here

==>>Super Bowl 57 Chiefs vs Eagles Live Click Here

How to watch Super Bowl Halftime Show 2023 Time and date: Sunday, February 12 at approx 8pm ET Channel: Fox (US) Free live stream: ITVX (UK) | 7Plus (Aus) | 7Azteca (MEX) Watch anywhere: Stream from anywhere with ExpressVPN

Watch Super Bowl Halftime Show 2023: preview We've Found Love in a hopeless place, and it's with Rihanna this Sunday at the Super Bowl Halftime Show. While for many it might be all about the Chiefs vs Eagles, most eyes will be on Rihanna as she returns for her first live performance in quite a while at the State Farm Stadium in Glendale, Arizona. With the promise of new music, read our guide on how to watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show 2023 online from anywhere this weekend! Having not released a new record since her eighth studio album Anti in 2016, Rihanna returned from her hiatus from music with the release of the Oscar nominated track "Lift Me Up" for the Black Panther: Wakanda Forever soundtrack. While a reggae project has been confirmed alongside a 2023 stadium tour, the Halftime Show could be the very thing to soft launch the next era of Rihanna. There's no doubt she'll be pulling out all the stops to make her long-awaited return. Commenting on performing live after seven years, Rihanna said the Super Bowl gig was certainly "scary", but that she would be "representing for immigrants, representing for my country, Barbados, representing for black women everywhere." Desperado for more Rihanna? We certainly can't wait to watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show and see Rihanna Take a Bow at one of the biggest US sporting events. We explain below how to get a live stream wherever you are, including tons of free options for those outside the US. If you're a US citizen on vacation or working overseas trying to tune into Fox, for instance, you can still watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show just as you would at home. While services like Sling TV and ITVX are only available to their respective countries (the US and UK), there's a handy piece of software called a VPN which can change your IP address to make it look like you're accessing streaming services from any country in the world. For example, US citizens in the UK can subscribe to a VPN, join a US based server and access their subscription from anywhere in the world, just like you would back home. The same goes for Brits abroad looking for a free stream on ITV. Watch Super Bowl Halftime Show as if you were at home with a VPN Watch Super Bowl Halftime Show as if you were at home with a VPN Offering a 30-day money back guarantee, try out ExpressVPN, the best VPN for unblocking many of the major streaming services including BBC iPlayer and Sling TV, and stream from any device, including your mobile or tablet, laptop, TV, or gaming console. Run into any problems? ExpressVPN has an excellent customer support team on hand 24/7. VIEW DEAL Step-by-step of using a VPN to unblock: 1. Choose a VPN and install it - our go-to recommendation is ExpressVPN(opens in new tab), with the 12-month plan offering the best value 2. Connect to a server - for Sling TV, you'll want to connect to a server based in the US, or those looking for a ITV stream, the UK 3. Head over to your stream of choice - carry on reading to see all of the free options available worldwide WATCH SUPER BOWL HALFTIME SHOW 2023 IN THE US Fox logo banner (Image credit: Fox) This year the Super Bowl will be broadcast by Fox, meaning that's the place tune into Rihanna's Halftime Show. The game itself kicks off at 6.30pm ET / 3.30pm PT, with the Halftime Show estimated at around 8pm ET / 5pm PT. Fox comes as a part of most cable packages, with the option to watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show through the Fox website with your login details, too. For those who've cut the cord, not to worry. You have a number of options. Our top recommendation is Sling TV(opens in new tab), with Fox coming as a part of its Sling Blue package, alongside more than 30 other channels. Better still, usually costing $40 a month, you can currently save 50% on your first month(opens in new tab), bringing it down to $20. For a more fully fledged cable alternative, FuboTV(opens in new tab) also hosts Fox TV alongside over 100 other channels, with plans starting from $74.99 a month. While pricier, you can give it a go before paying anything with a 7-day free trial(opens in new tab), too. Subscriber of either Sling TV or FuboTV but found yourself outside of the US? Don't miss out on Super Bowl Sunday - get a VPN to port yourself back to the US with all the details below on how. WATCH SUPER BOWL HALFTIME SHOW FREE IN THE UK  (Image credit: ITV) Brits wanting to catch Rihanna's first live performance in five years get a free front-row seat to the Super Bowl Halftime Show, with the game being shown on ITV1 for the first time in seven years. The game will begin at 11.30pm GMT with coverage starting on ITV at 10.45pm GMT on Sunday, February 12. That means you can expect to watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show at approximately 1am GMT in the early hours of Monday morning (February 13). If you can't tune into the free-to-air channel on linear TV, you can watch the Halftime Show on ITVX(opens in new tab), which is accessible across a number of devices. It's free to sign-up for a ITVX account. All you need is an email address and a UK postcode (e.g. B1A 1AA) and a valid TV licence. Abroad? Use a VPN using the instructions below to access ITVX(opens in new tab) like you would at home. WATCH SUPER BOWL HALFTIME SHOW 2023 IN CANADA  (Image credit: DAZN) DAZN(opens in new tab) is our go-to for Canadians wishing to watch Super Bowl 57 in Canada, streaming the entire thing (Halftime Show and all), from 6.30pm ET / 3.30pm PT with the Halftime Show expected to get started at 8pm ET / 5pm PT. You can opt between its monthly or annual plan, costing $24.99 a month or $199.99 a year(opens in new tab). Those with cable also have the option of both TSN and CTV, who will be televising the game. TSN also has an on-demand platform, TSN Direct, which costs $19.99 a month or $199 a year for those who don't have cable. Remember, Americans north of the border who wish to tune into their native broadcaster can hop on a VPN to stream Super Bowl via Fox(opens in new tab). WATCH SUPER BOWL HALFTIME SHOW 2023 IN AUSTRALIA  (Image credit: 7Plus) Aussies are well-served with a free stream to the Super Bowl Halftime Show, too. The game will be aired on Channel 7(opens in new tab) from 10.30am AEDT on Monday, February 13. That means the Halftime Show will start at around midday Down Under. Whether you tune into the channel on linear TV or catch it on its on-demand platform, 7Plus(opens in new tab), both are 100% free to watch. You simply need to create an account with a valid Australian ZIP code . Alternatively, you can watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show via ESPN's coverage, which available on Foxtel and the Foxtel Go app(opens in new tab). Of course, that means you can also watch via Kayo Sports(opens in new tab), which offers a 7-day free trial(opens in new tab). WATCH SUPER BOWL HALFTIME SHOW 2023 IN MEXICO  (Image credit: 7Azteca) NFL and Rihanna fans alike in Mexico can watch the Super Bowl Halftime Show on Azteca 7(opens in new tab), which offers a completely free stream. You can also tune into ESPN, Fox Sports, Televisa, and TV Azteca for your Halftime Show broadcast. What is the latest news on Rihanna's Halftime Show? Information surrounding what Rihanna's Halftime Show will entail remains a secret, though many sources are speculating about what to expect, with rumours the Barbadian star will predominantly focus on her biggest hits. Talking to Apple Music ahead of the event, Rihanna said, "The setlist was the biggest challenge. You're trying to cram 17 years of work into 13 minutes." She later joked at the Super Bowl press conference that there had been 39 iterations of the Halftime Show set-list, confirming that her Caribbean culture would be at the forefront of the Halftime Show. "That's a big part of why it's important for me to do this show. Representing for my country, Barbados. Representing for Black women everywhere. That's really important." Super Bowl Halftime Show 2023 trailer: