“No one leaves Game 7 the same person they were before the tip. Not the fans, not the coaching staff and certainly not the players. There’s always a certain amount of basketball soul left on the court.”

- Justin Tinsley, The Undefeated

GAME 7: DID YOU KNOW?

- There have been 139 Game 7s in NBA history.
- Home teams have a record of 108-31 (.777) in Game 7s.
- Every active NBA franchise has played at least one Game 7.
- There have been 19 Game 7s in the NBA Finals, with home teams holding a 15-4 record. The most recent Game 7 in the NBA Finals came in 2016, when the Cleveland Cavaliers defeated the host Golden State Warriors to become the first team to come back from a 3-1 deficit to win the Finals.
- The first Game 7 in NBA history took place on April 6, 1948, when the Philadelphia Warriors (now the Golden State Warriors) defeated the St. Louis Bombers 85-46 in the Semifinals.
- Bill Russell won all 10 Game 7s in which he played, the most victories without a loss for a player.
- Ten players have recorded a triple-double in a Game 7: Jerry West, Larry Bird, James Worthy, Scottie Pippen, Russell Westbrook (two), Rajon Rondo (two), Blake Griffin, LeBron James, Nikola Jokić (two) and Chris Paul.
- The NBA record for most points by a player in a Game 7 is 47, shared by the Boston Celtics' Sam Jones (1963 Eastern Division Finals against the Cincinnati Royals) and the Atlanta Hawks' Dominique Wilkins (1988 Eastern Conference Semifinals against Boston).
- The record for most points by a player in Game 7 of the NBA Finals is 42, by the Los Angeles Lakers' Jerry West against the Boston Celtics in 1969.
- Philadelphia 76ers head coach Doc Rivers has served as a head coach in a record 14 Game 7s. Pat Riley (11) and Larry Brown (10) rank second and third, respectively, in most Game 7s coached.
- Red Auerbach won all eight of his Game 7s as a head coach, the most victories without a loss for a head coach.
- LeBron James has scored the most total points in Game 7s with 279 – one more than Jerry West. (James has appeared in eight Game 7s and West played in nine.)
- The first Game 7 in the NBA Finals took place in 1951, when the Rochester Royals (now the Sacramento Kings) defeated the New York Knicks 79-75. In that series, New York lost the first three games before winning the next three games to force a Game 7.

GAME 7: DID YOU KNOW?

- In addition to the New York Knicks in the 1951 NBA Finals, two other teams have rallied from a 3-0 series deficit to force a Game 7: the Denver Nuggets against the Utah Jazz in the 1994 Western Conference Semifinals and the Portland Trail Blazers against the Dallas Mavericks in the 2003 Western Conference First Round.
- Ray Allen played in a record 11 Game 7s. Paul Pierce and Bill Russell are tied for the second-most Game 7s played with 10 each.
- The first round of the 2014 NBA Playoffs had five Game 7s, a record for any round in a season. A record three Game 7s were played on one day.
- The record for most Game 7s in a single season is five, which happened in 1994, 2014 and 2016.
- The Boston Celtics have played a record 33 Game 7s – or 24% of all Game 7s in NBA history. Boston has a 24-9 record (.727) in Game 7s.
- The Los Angeles Lakers have a 16-8 record (.667) in Game 7s – 15-1 at home and 1-7 on the road. The Lakers' one road victory in Game 7 came in overtime against the Sacramento Kings in the 2002 Western Conference Finals.
